SO. S. F. TO GET BETTTER CAR SERVICE

TELEGRAPH CO. ALSO PROMISES TO IMPROVE SERVICE WITH A LOCAL OFFICE IF BUSINESS PERMITS; OFFICIAL TO VISIT.

Thanks to the efforts of the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce this city is to get relief from the miserable street car service it has suffered from for years. There is every prospect, too, that the Chamber will be successful in its efforts to have a telegraph office established in this city.

This is the report and the glad news that the committee appointed from the Chamber to interview President Von Phul of the United Railroads and City Superintendent W. R. Edmondson of the Western Union Telegraph brought away from the two interviews.

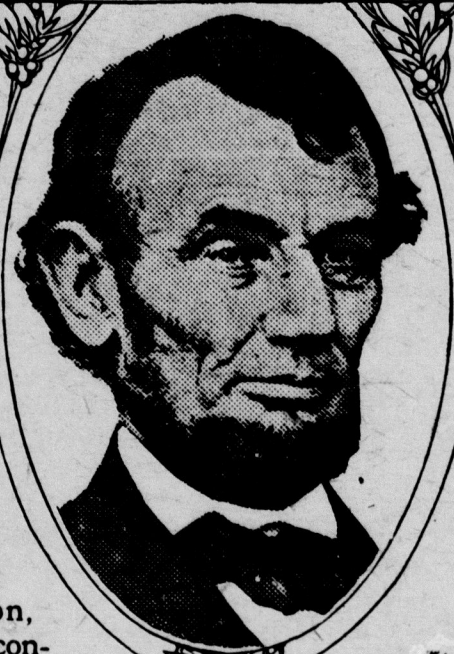

The committee, consisting of Andrew Hynding, P. R. Thompson, and E. C. Peck, interviewed Mr. Von Phul Wednesday afternoon. The head of the United Railroads expressed himself as willing to do anything reasonable to give this city better car service. He promised definitely that the street cars coming to the cemeteries would be run to the South San Francisco station hereafter, thus practically doubling the number of cars from the station to San Francisco. From this town to the station no more cars can be put on at present because of the single track, but Mr. Von Phul agreed that in the very near future, probably within sixty days, certain changes would be made to give a local ten-minute service in the daytime, with fifteen-minute service at night, instead of the present twenty-minute service during the day and thirty-minute at night. The street car official agreed, too, to have a better waiting room built at the South San Francisco station and better lighting facilities installed. In making these promises that mean so much for this city, Mr. Von Phul remarked he hoped the people of the town would show their appreciation by increased patronage of the street car system. It was pointed out that while one could travel from this city to any point in San Francisco for 30 cents round trip, it would cost 55 cents round trip by S. P. train, including street car fare at the city end of the trip. This is using a commutation ticket. Single fares on the steam road are 30 cents each way from station to station.

Mr. Edmondson of the telegraph company agreed that if there is the business here that the committee pointed out, a telegraph office would be opened in this city. Mr. Edmondson will come to South San Francisco early next week to look the local situation over.

TRUSTEES MEET IN TWO SHORT SESSIONS

The city trustees held a short and uneventful meeting Monday night of this week, adjourning to Wednesday night. Wednesday another meeting was held, at which a resolution was passed calling for sealed bids for the grading of the approaches and driveway to the new city hall at the civic center. These bids will be opened Monday night, February 23. No other business was transacted Wednesday night. At Monday night's meeting bills were audited and ordered paid and routine business transacted.

1809 LINCOLN 1865

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure.

We are met on a great battlefield of that war, we have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this, but, in a larger sense we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced.

It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

CONVICTION OF NORTHCOTT UPHeld

COURT OF APPEALS SUSTAINS SUPERIOR COURT VERDICT; NORTHCOTT MAY STILL TAKE CASE TO SUPREME COURT.

Monday of this week William H. Langdon, presiding justice of the district court of appeals, rendered a decision upholding the conviction of Dr. Ephraim Northcott on a charge of murdering Miss Inez Reed, army nurse. The opinion was concurred in by Associate Justices Frank S. Brittain and John T. Nourse. Northcott, now at liberty on $3000 bail, has twenty-five days in which to appeal for a rehearing or to the supreme court.

Dr. Northcott's trial, held in Redwood City last June, was one of the most sensational trials ever held in the county. The accused was convicted and sentenced by Judge G. H. Buck on July 6th to an indeterminate sentence of from ten years to life.

The body of the dead nurse was found in a lonely ravine off the Crystal Springs road, west of San Mateo, March 8th of last year. At the trial Northcott denied that he had ever seen Miss Reed, but District Attorney Franklin Swart, with the assistance of the San Francisco police department, wove around him a web of strong circumstantial evidence, and the jury found him guilty. The evidence produced at the famous trial also convinced the appellate court of the doctor's guilt, for Judge Langdon stated in a long opinion filed by the court that the record leaves no doubt of Dr. Northcott's guilt.

PLACER MINING CO. IMPROVES CLAIM

Thomas Blackwell, for years a resident of this city, now living at Quincy, Calif., where he is interested in the Australian Placer Mining Company, has been visiting friends in this city for several days. Mr. Blackwell states that the prospects for the mining company, in which a number of former residents of this city are interested, are excellent. The members of the company have constructed a dam 136 feet long and 20 feet wide with a spillway 25 feet wide. A pipe line 700 feet long conducts the water to the property. Mining operations have been impossible during the winter, but with the spring thaw it is expected that active operations will begin. There has been a fall of about 18 inches of snow at the mine. At the head of the company's ditch the snowfall was about 8 feet, guaranteeing a bountiful supply of water for the year. Practically all the members of the company are well known in South San Francisco, and their friends in this city are wishing them the best of luck in their venture.

SWIFT AVENUE PAVING TO BEGIN IN FEW DAYS

The grading of Swift avenue preparatory to its paving has been completed by the Ralsch Improvement Company, and a start will be made on laying the cement within a few days, weather permitting.

A resolution was adopted abandoning Visitation avenue in the first township.

MORAN COMPANY TO MOVE OFFICES HERE

Big Packing Company Will Center Interests at Its Plant in This City.

An announcement that has been received with much interest in this city is that made this week by the Moran Packing Company that in the very near future it planned to move its head offices from San Francisco to this city. The move will be made as soon as a suitable structure can be added to the group of buildings at the Moran plant. Architects are now drawing up plans for an office building, which will be of the bungalow type, and construction on the building will start within a few days. This is a move of much interest to South San Francisco, as it means the centering of the extensive Moran interests in this city. It will mean also that from twenty-five to thirty more men will be employed at the local plant, these being the office employees now in the city office.

MINSTREL TROUPE TO APPEAR AT Y. M. C. A.

The International Minstrels will give a big show at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Tuesday evening, February 17th. The program put on by these talented performers includes musical numbers, comedy events, sketches, and jokes and joshes such as a minstrel show always has. Like all the "Y" entertainments, this minstrel show will be free to all, but children under 14 years of age must be accompanied by their parents.

We at least are safe from one menace. The devil will hardly come to earth while the reds are up and doing.

WHERE CABLES OF WIRE ARE MADE

WATCHING RODS DRAWN DOWN INTO WIRE AND WIRE MADE INTO ROPE AT THE PLANT OF THE E. H. EDWARDS COMPANY.

LITTLE JOURNEYS THROUGH THE INDUSTRIAL PLANTS OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, THE HOME OF MANUFACTURING INTERESTS.

The story of the growth and expansion of the E. H. Edwards Company, manufacturers of wire and wire rope, whose plant is in this city, is the story of a business forging steadily ahead, frequently enlarging its plant and increasing its equipment as its business grew and the demand for its product increased. It is the story of a business developing in five years from a small beginning, a factory consisting of one small building in which about twenty men were employed, to its present plant, which spreads over several acres, is housed in three large buildings, one of them 220 feet in length and the others nearly as large.

As it stands today the business is a worthy testimonial to the industry and business acumen of its proprietor and founder, E. H. Edwards. The manner in which the plant recovered from the disastrous fire that visited it two years ago is characteristic of the spirit of enterprise that has been behind the concern since its establishment, for within three weeks after the

R. C. WILL HANDLE FLU IF EPIDEMIC

County Supervisors Promise Aid to Red Cross if Influenza Demands Its Services.

If there is an epidemic of influenza the Red Cross chapter of San Mateo county will be in a position to handle cases from all over the county with the assistance of the county supervisors. This was brought out at the county supervisors' meeting at the county seat Monday when Miss Helen Cheseborough, vice-chairman of the county Red Cross chapter, appeared before the board and asked if the county would give financial assistance in combating the malady should it take an epidemic form. The board assured Miss Cheseborough that it would do so. The Red Cross official reported that thirty cases had been reported to it from Burlingame, with one family in South San Francisco. It appears, also, that there are many cases in San Mateo.

Another matter brought up at the board meeting Monday was the picketing or turning loose of cattle and livestock on the county roads. It was brought to the attention of the supervisors that such animals do much damage to property, and the county clerk was instructed to notify the constables in the different townships that where there is no poundmaster the enforcing of the state law against livestock being pastured on public highways would be up to them.

The board adopted a resolution calling for the sale of the Visitation school bonds. These bonds were recently sold in the sum of $24,000, but attorneys for the purchasers held that the sale was invalid because that sum exceeded the bonding limit of the district. Next Monday $23,000 of the plant was practically destroyed the machinery was humming once more and its various products being turned out.

The Edwards wire factory now employs from 90 to 100 men. Its products are wire rope of many kinds and sizes, iron wire, steel, galvanized wire and wire netting.

It was under the guidance of its superintendent, M. L. Spangler, that The Enterprise man visited the plant and saw its various products being made.

Wire Drawn Cold

To anybody who has never seen wire manufactured it would appear impossible that it could be drawn down from large sizes to smaller ones while cold, yet that is exactly what happens. The raw material reaches the factory in the form of No. 5 iron rod, that is, rod about one-fifth of an inch in diameter or somewhat smaller than the ordinary lead pencil. From this size it is reduced, usually, as small as No. 17 wire, a reduction of 93 per cent in size. The mind can grasp the change in length better when it is said that 100 pounds of No. 5 rod is 881 feet in length, while the same rod after being reduced to No. 17 wire is 12,992 feet in length, or nearly fifteen times as long as when it entered the mill. Wire is even drawn as fine as No. 24 at the Edwards mill. This means a wire about as large as that used in window screens.

Watching Wire Drawn

The first process through which the coils of No. 5 rod are put is a bath of sulphuric acid. There are five large, round tanks at the Edwards plant for this purpose. The acid removes scale and rust from the iron. Then into a bath of liquid lime they go. The lime stops the action of the acid and lubricates the rod for the first drawing. First, however, the lime is baked to the coils of rod by being placed for several hours in a large furnace.

The method of actually reducing the rod to wire and the wire to smaller wire is simplicity itself. Each coil is placed on a revolving upright spool and the end of the rod passed through and iron in which is a small, tapering hole. The end is then attached to another spool which, as it revolves, winds up the wire, drawing it through the tapering hole. The pressure of the small opening tends to reduce the size of the strand. The pressure in the small, tapering opening is all applied on about one-eighth of an inch. The first drawing reduces the No. 5 rod to No. 7, the second to No. 9½. Each successive draft reduces the wire about 40 per cent. The revolving spools around which the wire coils are known as drawing blocks, and in the first long building of the Edwards plant are seventy-four drawing blocks each with two reels from which the rods or wire are drawn. Each drawing block is mounted on a heavy steel shaft, the blocks being driven by bevel gears. In another part of the same building sixteen more drawing blocks with their attendant reels are being installed, which will greatly increase the output of the plant.

Heating the Wire

But after several drawings cold the wire becomes brittle, caused by the separation of the molecules. Then it is heated, causing a readjustment of the atoms and a renewing of its strength. This heating is done by drawing the wire, once more by revolving reels, through long furnaces. The furnace through which the steel wire that goes into the making of the great steel ropes is drawn is thirty feet in length, and the wire is here subjected to a heat of 1800 degrees.

On the other side of the room from this furnace is a square brick foundation in which is a shallow tank containing molten lead at a heat of 1300 degrees. This anneals or toughens the brittle fence wire. After this it is drawn through a bath of muriatic acid to thoroughly clean the lead away, following which it is drawn through another bath, this time of a zinc preparation for galvanizing it to resist rust. Sixteen wires were being drawn through these baths at the same time spread in a horizontal row like the strings of a violin. After the wire emerges from the zinc it is drawn through asbestos to smooth its surface, after which it is coiled up and is ready for market or other use.

Making Rope

At the entrance to the big building where wire rope is made is a machine for testing the strength of every wire that goes into the cables. After each coil is tested it is tagged as to size, strength, etc. Each kind or grade of wire rope is made for a certain purpose and great care is taken that each wire has the strength required of it. The rope-making is in charge of T. Emerson, an expert wire rope-maker, who has been in the business fifty years. Probably everybody seeing wire rope or cable has wondered how the stiff material was twisted into the great cables which have such tremendous strength. The process is interesting. The cables may be of six strands, each strand being made of seven, nineteen, or more wires. It may be of eight strands each of nineteen or more wires. It may be of plain iron wire, galvanized iron wire, galvanized steel wire, etc., but the process of twisting is the same. Nineteen spools of wire or more, according to the number of wires to go into a strand, are mounted on 'elbows on a long shaft, the whole revolving at a rapid rate. As it revolves, 'heels over head, each spool gives of its wire which, wound on a drum at one end, is thus twisted into a strand. Other twisting appliances near by, exactly similar but larger and stronger, convert the strands drawn from whirling spools into cables of any desired size or number of strands. The strands are usually wound around a manila rope center, which gives pliability.

Making Netting

Another interesting sight in the great building where the ropes are twisted is the making of wire netting. Here the process is not so apparent as in the rope making. The many galvanized iron wires that go into the netting are fed into a series of upright iron tubes about three inches in diameter and perhaps four feet high. Driven by the mechanism of the apparatus, these tubes move back and forth sidewise, twisting the wires at short intervals, making the "meshes" everybody has seen in "rabbit-wire." The process is a tremendously noisy one and not easily followed by the person seeing it for the first time, but at any rate the wire netting emerges from the top of the tubes smoothly, evenly, and is wound around a revolving shaft. There are five of these big netting machines in the Edwards plant. Under the same roof are great piles of wire netting of sizes all the way from one to eight feet in width.

It is an interesting place, the E. H. Edwards wire and rope factory. One comes away feeling that it is a fine, big institution, an industrial plant that South San Francisco can well be proud of, one that is destined to grow and prosper as time goes on.

INCOME TAXES NOW DUE AND PAYABLE

The federal income tax season has formally opened. In summing up conditions under which returns must be made, Collector of Internal Revenue Justus S. Wardell said:

From now until the bell rings on the night of March 15th, the annual returns covering income for 1919 will be figured out and filed by citizens and residents, together with payments of tax due.

The burden of fulfilling this obligation is laid by law squarely on the shoulders of those who are American citizens or residents. Every person must determine for himself whether his net income for 1919, figured according to the revenue law, was sufficient in amount to require a return.

If he is single, a return is required if his net income for 1919 was $1000 or over. A widow or widower is classed as a single person. A man or woman living apart from his wife or husband is also classed as a single person.

If he was married and living with his wife on December 31st, a return is required if his net income for 1919 was $2000 or over. In his net income he must include that of his wife and minor children, if any.

If a tax is due on his income, he must make payment with his return. This payment may be made in whole or in part of the tax due. At least one-quarter of the tax must accompany the return.

The filing and paying must be done before midnight of March 15th, or he is classed as a delinquent and is subject to severe penalties.

EPWORTH LEAGUE TO HOLD VALENTINE SOCIAL

The Epworth League of the Methodist church is making plans for a social the evening of February 14th that will eclipse all previous efforts along the same lines. An elaborate program is being arranged by a committee consisting of David L. Smith, Miss Alice Stearns, and Miss Marie Burns. The committee in charge of games for the evening includes Mrs. Elsie Brown and Mr. and Mrs. R. Fakkema, while the decoration of the hall is in the hands of Miss Edith Broner, Miss Alma Stahl, and Miss Myrtle Vaccari. There will be a musical and literary program given, besides games for the evening. One feature of the evening will be a post-office in charge of Newell Stearns, where valentines will be received and distributed. Another event will be the evening's refreshments. This is to be in the form of a box lunch, the young ladies to bring the lunches, which will be auctioned to the highest bidders. An evening of fun is in store for all who attend.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO A HISTORY

The site for South San Francisco was chosen and its lands were acquired by Peter E. Iler of Omaha, Nebraska, who, in his Omaha home, two thousand miles from the Lux Ranch, conceived the scheme of a new industrial city upon the shores of the bay of San Francisco.

Peter E. Iler was an Omaha pioneer, and one of that city's most prominent and successful business men. In the course of many years of business activity he had gained a considerable fortune, and in 1879 took a leading part in the enterprise for the establishment of union stockyards at Omaha and a stock market for all the cattle ranges of the trans-Missouri river country tributary to Omaha, a movement which resulted in the founding and rapid development of a great cattle market and meat packing center and the upbuilding of the city of South Omaha.

The phenomenal success of South Omaha suggested to Mr. Iler the idea of repeating the South Omaha experiment on the bay of San Francisco.

With such a scheme in mind Mr. Iler came to San Francisco in 1889 and began at once to investigate its practicability. His attention was first called to Stockton, in the immediate vicinity of which he obtained options to purchase lands for his contemplated enterprise; these options he later surrendered, and began inspection of lands on the western shores of the bay, nearer San Francisco.

The idea of a South San Francisco as a counterpart of a South Omaha may have tended to influence him in his choice, and again, finding the firm of Miller & Lux, California land barons and cattle kings, with large interests in both land and cattle in the peninsula country just south of San Francisco, may have had more to do with his decision. Whatever the influences may have been that moved him, he chose the Lux Ranch and adjacent lands as the site and foundation for his ambitious industrial project.

After a very careful study of all the conditions, Mr. Iler took options on some 3500 acres of land, including the Lux Ranch of 1463.91 acres.

Upon finding the titles clear, he took deeds and paid cash for all the lands covered by his contracts, amounting to a total of over $750,000.

The three-quarters of a million dollars paid as purchase money for the lands was only the initial cost of the great industrial and financial scheme planned by Iler, in which, presumably, Miller & Lux had become participants or partners.

It had grown greater than Iler had at first planned or even imagined; greater than Miller & Lux (old-fashioned and conservative butchers and land owners) were willing to underwrite.

It meant big money—many millions—for modern stockyards and packing houses and a deep-water harbor for a great manufacturing center, which would become an important unit in the future industrial district of the city of San Francisco. Iler had advanced for the purchase of the lands a large sum of money; he realized that big capital, more money than he could command, or than Miller & Lux would be willing to venture, would be required to carry out his plans; he had come to know the millionaire Chicago packers through his South Omaha experience, and he invited them to join himself and his asso-

LAND SCRIP GOES ON SALE AT SACRAMENTO, MARCH 1ST

Surveyor-General W. S. Kingsbury will hold a public auction sale of scrip in the senate chamber at Sacramento, Monday, March 1, 1920, at 10 a. m.

State scrip is the cheapest land scrip on the market today. It can be purchased only by citizens of the United States who are residents of the state of California and who have not filed and perfected applications for school land with the surveyor-general amounting to 640 acres.

State scrip is not transferable. No purchaser can buy more than 640 acres of scrip. Persons who have purchased school lands at auction only are qualified to buy scrip.

Scrip is sold in forty-acre lots for cash, personal checks received, and the surrender of the scrip is payment for an equal acreage of government land.

At the last auction sale of scrip the average price received per acre was $9.82.

Homestead and desert land entrymen can relinquish their entries through the surveyor-general and acquire title to the land through the purchase of scrip. The applicant need not live on or improve the land.

All money received from the sale of state scrip goes to the support of the public schools of the state.

ciates in his great enterprise. The Chicago "Big Four," with Swift and Morris leading, joined, putting up the big end of the required capital and taking over a controlling interest in the scheme.

Under the enlarged combine two joint stock corporations were formed. One, to be known as the "South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company," was made owner of all the lands of the association. It was provided that the lands of the Land and Improvement Company should be divided into two districts, to-wit: An industrial or factory district and a residence and business district.

The residence and business district was to include all lands west of the right of way of the Southern Pacific Company's Bay Shore Railroad. It was understood in a general way that there were to be no factories in this district, except on lands adjacent to railroads, upon which comparatively small industries might desire to locate and carry on business. The industrial or manufacturing district was to comprise all lands east of said right of way, not included in the residence and business district or required for residence purposes, and said lands were in a general way to be held, sold, occupied and used as sites for manufacturing industries and for roads for the use of factories and the public, and that within said district, in a general way, no dwelling or business houses were to be permitted.

Another and a sister corporation was organized, to be known as the "Western Meat Company." To this corporation the Land and Improvement Company conveyed eighty acres of its lands fronting the bay of San Francisco. The business of the Western Meat Company was to be that of providing and conducting big stockyards and a great slaughtering and meat packing plant.

A JEWELER'S JOKE.

In the morning's mail at The Enterprise office one day this week appeared the catalog of a diamond house in Philadelphia. We have been wondering ever since what the idea was of sending us this bit of advertising. If the diamond merchant thought to sell us some diamonds, the joke is on him. If he intended it as a joke, the joke is on him anyhow, for the catalog is expensively gotten up and he certainly wasted his money. He should have known that the wearing of diamonds went out of fashion among newspaper editors in 1836, and as long as the present H. C. of publishing newspapers keeps up has as much chance for revival as the famous celluloid pup has for a long life in Tophet.

SINK OR SWIM TOGETHER.

The recurrence of appeals for class legislation and the appeals to class prejudice should warn Americans that they float on one life raft, not on individual life preservers, in public affairs.

That life raft is the constitution and the American system as founded by the fathers, with equal rights and opportunities for all and special privileges to be created by legislation for none.

The new socialistic programs in American politics, founded on laws for the promotion of class interests, including banking and insurance especially devised to benefit select groups, are un-American.

It is a noticeable fact that the socialist always seeks an entering wedge for a class whose votes he would capture—like state-owned elevators, state-owned sugar factories, or farm insurance.

Yet the state exists for all, collects taxes from all, its acts whether a success or failure must be borne by all. No one class can be especially benefited but at the expense of all.

TWO MILLION HOUSES WANTED.

Back in 1916 the supply of houses just about kept up with the demand. Population was increasing at the usual rate of 13 per cent a year.

During 1917-18 everybody was busy "winning the war," and construction of houses fell off to about one-third the usual figure.

January, 1919, found us with these four million men coming back into civil life, the accumulated demand of two or three years, came all at once. Three years' supply of houses were needed at once. Instead of having them we are short 2,000,000 homes that would naturally have been built during 1917-18.

Here we have an unusually large demand and 2,000,000 less houses than the ordinary supply. The law of supply and demand—the law that fixes prices—has raised rents.

The only thing that can bring rents down is this same basic law. If the balance is to swing the other way—to lower rates—we must build.

We are all here and we've got to live somewhere, so there isn't much chance of cutting down the demand.

Europe, unable to pay even the interest on the billions already loaned to it, now naively asks that Uncle Sam drop another $35,000,000,000 into its bankrupt hopper. Figuring it out per capita, your share would be approximately $350. Cough up!

Man is a taking animal, any way you look at him. The hustler takes to work, the laggard takes a snooze, the warrior takes a punch at his enemy and the coward takes to his heels. And, when there's nothing else to take, everybody takes offense.

John D. Rockefeller is staggering around under seven hundred million dollars' worth of Standard Oil stock. The poor, unfortunate, overburdened man! No wonder oil took another jump the other day.

Moonshining in these sunny days of parched throats is not confined to the ancient habitat of the wild mountaineer. It is apt to be right in your neighbor's aristocratic cellar.

Banquets, we opine, will not be so popular now as in the halcyon days of champagne, bourbon, and gin-fizzes. Water, as yet, has not been mellowed to the proper taste.

It is possible, of course, that women take the opposite side of a question because it would never do to concede that their husbands are always right.

Go easy on your bean. Your thinker can do just so much work and then it ceases to function. It becomes a jumble of nothing.

If it is true that people who indulge in day dreams are always contrary, this world must be one long day dream after another.

There are always two sides to every question—the trouble being, however, that the other fellow can never see it.

Some people have trouble going to sleep because they spend too much time laying awake thinking about it.

Beat it, fellows! This is leap year, and 5000 girls are rushing over from England on a rampage for husbands.

SENT TO AGNEWS.

Henry Rolf, former worker at the steel mill, was committed to Agnews this week as of unsound mind. Rolf's case has aroused the sympathy of the entire community. He is a young man of excellent character and had many friends here. Some weeks ago he was knocked down by a swinging bar at the mill, his head striking an iron trough. He suffered a fractured skull and on his recovery his mind was impaired.

Those riotous scenes observed in many towns are not the Bolsheviks trying to establish Soviet government, but merely the housewives crowding up to the counter for a 25-pound lot of sugar.

SERMONETTE FOR TODAY

MEDITATIONS OF A MAN.

The book of life is never so bright but that a man may turn over a new leaf, with advantage to others as well as to himself. It is so with me. I have reformed my ways with regard to my wife, and she is a happier woman today—and her happiness makes our home brighter for me.

But I have still my children to consider, for in my determination to chase the shadows from the life of my wife I neglected to include them. But it is never too late to add another link in the chain of reformation. I will forge it today.

I am responsible for the presence of my children in this world. Their tomorrow is my legitimate care of today, and by my acts they will judge me. Do I remember that in their infancy they have neither thought nor of the future—that to them it is a void, the meaning of which has not penetrated their infantile brains. Do I remember that even the slightest impressions are often indelibly stamped upon their budding memories, to accompany them through life and into the shadows beyond? Do I remember that many of those impressions must necessarily be formed from the manner of my actions in their presence, and of the treatment I accord to them? Do I remember that as they become older their conceptions of right and wrong will be gauged mainly by the teachings they receive at home? Do I remember that while their destinies must be carved out by their own hands, yet their future will be principally determined by the paths into which I lead them today? Do I make of myself a beacon light which they may follow in confidence and in the knowledge that it will lead them through the intricate perils of youth and into the safe harbor of maturity? Am I to them at all times and in all things the kind and loving parent whom little children delight to fondle and to caress? Is my daily treatment

CARAMEL MAKES A CHEAP AND DELICIOUS FLAVORING

Flavorings, like most other groceries, have advanced in price. A home-made flavoring, which is not new but which is cheap and always delicious, is caramel. Its frequent use is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture kitchen to those who wish to economize. It may be used successfully in custards, ice creams, and many other desserts.

To make caramel flavoring, place one cup of sugar in an iron saucepan. Heat it until well browned, stirring constantly even after the dish has been taken from the fire and until the danger of burning in the hot dish is past. Before the mixture hardens add one cup of hot water and cook the mixture until it is about the consistency of thick syrup. Bottle and save for use when needed.

of them such that they long each night for the hour when daddy comes home again? And as the years lead them slowly from infancy to youth and from youth to maturity shall I be to them a companion, a comrade, a loyal friend as well as a parent?

Alas! My shortcomings have been many and great. Always I have forgotten—and to forget is to neglect.

The burden of their care has fallen principally upon the frail shoulders of my wife—that loving companion whose burdens I should also bear, as well as theirs.

But I will make amends.

I will remember all of these things and I will do all of these things, for as I am to them today so will they be to their children—for heredity is strong and may not easily be cast aside.

And when their own heads have become silvered by the lapse of time, and I have passed on to my reward, I would that they might some day think back over the years that have flown and wrote of me that epitaph which is more lasting than granite, more precious than gold:

"My father was a good man."

COSTUMES TO BE WORN AT '49ERS' CELEBRATION

We will try to give you an idea of the costumes that will be worn at South San Francisco's celebration, known as Coyote Gulch '49ers' Dance and Frontier Day, to be held Saturday evening, February 14th.

The chairman on costumes has been supported by a live committee indeed. They have spent days of labor and thought in studying the customs and dress of California's early days.

They have taken the best costumers into their confidence, have attended the best shows featuring early day garb, and, after weeks of earnest research, have completed their creation of suitable costumes.

A glance at our posters will show which characters are prize winners, so it might be well to dress accordingly.

There is an unlimited assortment of costumes to choose from, anything that the mind might conceive that would be in keeping with the date.

If you do not see exactly what you wish let our agents who are handling the costumes know, and they will gladly see that your order is filled. No better occasion ever presented itself for a gorgeous array of costumes.

Indeed, this is a grand occasion to show all the sparkling splendor with which our forefathers arrayed themselves on the occasion of a gala day. There will be the '49 gentleman, that pompous old character, with his soft plug hat, large bow tie, Prince Albert coat and tight-fitting trousers, accompanied by the dame of yesterday in her quaint bonnet and ruffled skirt.

Among the crowd will be scores of cowboys in their picturesque garb, leather chaps, silver ornamented cuffs and belts, high-colored shirts and bandanas, to say nothing of their array of weapons.

No better field ever presented itself than this to portray the miner. This character will be pictured from every angle, each showing that adventurer of old in his own way.

The most original character will afford all a chance to show their talent in producing something out of the ordinary yet in keeping with the occasion.

As you look upon this gay array of costumes your mind will lead you back into the days when these characters were a reality. You can weave stories of love and adventure about them.

Again you can feel the freedom of the plains, or the stillness of the desert, as you see the miner, the cowboy, the vaquero and the Indian mingling in their regalia of yesterday. You will feel that thrill of treading on dangerous ground as you mingle among gamblers, dance hall girls, and other characters who preyed on their fellow men in the days gone by.

It would take pages to give only an outline on the many costumes that will be worn on this occasion.

The fruits of our labor and study are in evidence by the large assortment of costumes to be seen at Barkoff's Corner Store, also at I. J. Light's, Grand avenue. They will be there until 8 o'clock the night of the dance, after which they may be rented at the hall.

Next week we will give you a parting word about the celebration, that you may be the better prepared for that one grand night of fun and frolic.—Advt.

If King Victor Emanuel succeeds in curbing the Italian profiteers, we'll be unanimously in favor of importing him bodily and putting him onto the job in this country.

We were quite staggered a few days ago to learn from the news dispatches that Prince Eitel Fritz of Germany has been without meat for three weeks. It reminded us of our own meatless days.

"PACKINGTOWN" NOTES

The Welfare Club staged its biggest and best show Tuesday evening, pulling off before a large audience forty-five rounds of fistie combats. From an entertainment point of view the bouts were a huge success, being replete with comedy, science, and pep. Nearly every department in the plant put forth a contestant, and the killing gangs were particularly enthusiastic over the showing made by their men.

J. H. Kelley, city trustee, had a squad of coming champions under his personal direction, among the most promising being Jack O'Keefe, Cyclone Murray, Jack Quinn, and Joe Martin. The first bout of the evening was between Kid Shackler, champion of the sheep gang, and Kid Signorelli, champion of the offal gang. Both boys put up a swift and fancy exhibition of boxing.

Butcher Pisa, champion of the beef department, and Butcher De Lombardi, champion of the hog department, gave a classy exhibition of scientific comedy, at the same time putting a lot of heavy fighting into their four rounds. Both boys are veterans of the world war and displayed their army training to excellent advantage. Other bouts were Young Lato vs. Bonalazo, Dave Rogers vs. Earl Murray.

The concluding bout between K. O. O'Keefe and Joe Martin was a real treat, featuring fast and snappy boxing. While Joe Martin takes his pugilistic advice from Manager J. H. Kelley, he is also known as "Dr. Hicks' Wonder" and "The Pride of Establishment No. 72." Kitchen Police Bowler, Welte, Spellman, and Elder were on the job and served hot rolls and clubhouse franks free of charge. When George Haaker was not busy trying to secure the future management of a few of the new champions, he put in his time telling the fellows in the ring just where they should hit.

Ivan S. Boyer, chief clerk of the packing house office for the past five years, resigned his position last Saturday and intends to devote most of his time in future to his ranch near San Jose. He was well liked by his associates around the plant and as a testimonial of their friendship they presented him with a beautiful twenty-three jeweled octagon-shaped Waltham watch, finely engraved. Good by, Ivan; we wish you luck, and don't forget us.

Alex Welte has been appointed foreman of the curing departments to succeed Mr. Olsen, who recently left for Sacramento.

Alex Van Valin of San Mateo was appointed successor to Mf. Boyer and J. H. Payne of Lomita Park succeeds Van Valin as secretary to Superintendent J. O. Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haaker spent the latter part of the week visiting in Santa Rosa. George feels inclined to think that the northern county has nothing on San Mateo.

B. C. Darnell, general manager of the Swift & Co. North Portland house, was a visitor at the plant Wednesday.

A. Anderson and Mr. Haaker can now be seen playing solitaire at the clubhouse during the lunch hour. The recent exposure put the boys wise.

The Electric Laundry

Eliminates Household Drudgery

Washing and Ironing lose their disagreeable features when done electrically.

The back-breaking scrubbing on the wash-board is entirely eliminated. The clothes are placed in the frothy soapuds in the washing machine. You start the motor and in fifteen or twenty minutes the clothes are clean.

Next the power-driven wringer will help in the rinsing and bluing. The only thing the Electric Washer will not do is hang the clothes on the line.

When ready to iron, the Electric Ironing Machine will do the flat pieces so easily that you will say it is more fun than work. Provide for these LABOR-SAVING and MONEY-SAVING devices in your plans or consult a wiring contractor about wiring convenient outlets in your present house.

A word to the wise: ADVERTISE IN THE ENTERPRISE.

OF THE SEVENTH GENERATION

Great War President Might Well, if He Had Wished, Boast of His American Ancestors.

So unique is the individuality of Abraham Lincoln that one is naturally surprised to learn that the name has ever been borne by anybody else. As a matter of fact, on the evidence of a recently published genealogical chart of the former president's family, there have been four others. The fifth and famous Abraham was of the seventh generation of Lincolns in the United States. The chart shows that Samuel, son of Edward Lincoln of Hingham, England, was apprenticed to a weaver and mariner, and that he came to America in 1637, living first in Salem and afterward in Hingham, Mass. Thus by about 17 years, if the genealogy is correct, Abraham Lincoln missed being a Mayflower descendant.

New Lincoln Story.

A Washingtonian who was a mere boy at the breaking out of the Civil war recently related a small incident that is as typical of Lincoln as any of the thousands of others that have gone before. This man had enlisted in the first regiment enrolled in the capital city. The recruits had been drawn up on Pennsylvania avenue and reviewed by the president and his secretary of war, Mr. Seward. These two dignitaries passed down the line of troops and as they passed the man who now relates the incident, President Lincoln remarked:

"Seward, I suppose there are a hundred men in these ranks who could hold your job or mine."

Our English friends should not blow up over little incidents that crop out in our investigations of the conduct of the war. Politicians do not always voice the sentiments of the people of this country.

Lincoln's Task.

Mr. Lincoln's perilous task has been to carry a rather shaky craft through the rapids, making fast the unrulier legs as he could snatch opportunity, and the country is to be congratulated that he did not think it his duty to run straight at all hazards, but cautiously to assure himself with his setting pole where the main current was, and keep steadily to that. He is still in wild water, but we have faith that his skill and sureness of she will bring him right at last.—Lowell (1864).

ATLANTA CLUB LOSES GAME TO Y. M. I. TEAM

The Atlanta basketball team of this city played a game with the Y. M. I. team of San Francisco Monday night and lost to a score of 26 to 13. The game was played at the local high school gymnasium. These games have so far been open to the public but, because of the deportment of certain boys who have attended, the public will no longer be admitted. The youths referred to went about over the high school building, tampered with the fire hose and made themselves generally obnoxious, making it necessary to exclude them hereafter.

Y. M. C. A. TEAM WINS BASKETBALL GAME

The local Y. M. C. A. basketball team won a hard-fought game from the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. team at the high school gymnasium last Friday night, the score being 47 to 45. The game was closely contested from the start. Five minutes before the close of the second half the visitors were five points ahead.

COSTA CAR STOLEN; FOUND ON STREET NEAR BY

The car belonging to Tony Costa was taken from the garage at the Costa home on Aspen avenue last Sunday night, and later was found at the side of the road near the Golden Eagle Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Costa returned from the theater in the car after 9 o'clock, put it in the garage and locked the door. At about 10 a neighbor saw the garage door standing open. Investigation showed the car gone. Mr. Costa and the neighbor followed tracks that seemed to indicate the car had been pushed by hand well away from the garage. An hour or so later the two men found the car abandoned on the road. It is believed a gang of boys took the machine from the garage.

MINE DEVELOPMENT WILL START IN NEAR FUTURE

The story that appeared in a San Francisco paper Thursday evening to the effect that the lease of the property on top of the hill above the high school, including the mining prospect recently discovered there, had been signed between the Swift interests and T. V. Barton and that Mr. Barton would proceed immediately to expend about $20,000 in sinking a shaft, is inaccurate, it has been declared here by those closely in touch with developments concerning the property. The lease, sent to Chicago for approval, received the approval of Mr. Swift and is expected back in this city within a day or two. On receipt of the papers Mr. Barton plans to organize a stock company which will develop the property.
